TWO BREAKS IN MISSOURI LEVEE FLOOD LANDS

10,000 ACRES SUBMERGED, 150 FAMILIES FLEE

20,000 ADDITIONAL ACRES OF AND CORN LANDS IN PATH

TOTAL DAMAGE BY INUNDATION TO AMOUNT TO MORE THAN $1,000,000

Kennett, Mo., June 16.—(UP) — Millions of gallons of water from the swollen St. Francis river poured eastward through two breaks in the levee north of here today., inundating approximately 15,000 acres of fertile cotton and corn lands in Dunklin county, forcing scores of families to flee to safety, and causing damage estimated at $1,000,000.

Kennett officials directing preventive measure by a force of 1,200 men estimated this afternoon that an additional area of 15,000 acres would be overflowed to the depth of about two feet before the crest of the flood passes, probably tomorrow. No loss of life had been reported.

A threatened new break in the levee at Brown Ferry, 12 miles north of here, has ben temporarily averted according to reports to Mayor R. R. Plankey, who said he believed the levee had been strengthened sufficiently to hold. The two breaks through which the water is flowing occurred five and six miles north of here. They are steadily widening.

Members of the stricken rural families were congregating on the Dunklin county fair grounds, where the local chapter of the Red Cross, warned of such an eventuality, had prepared a tent colony.

Reports reaching the office of Mayor R. R. Plankey up to nine A. M. today, said there had been no loss of life, as residents of the district had been warned of the river's steady rise and the threatened break in the levees.

Hundreds of relief workers, including several companies of Missouri national guardsmen, were attempting to buttress the weakening levee against the crest of the flood, expected to pass here late tomorrow.

The two breaks in the levee were of approximately 200 and 150 feet respectively, and poured the waters of the St. Francis into the low, fertile fields of Dunklin county, sweeping away some stock and damaging young crops.

Rains during the recent week, which abated yesterday, had swollen the St. Francis to the point where tops of the levees were awash in spots. Efforts to strengthen the levee north of here proved futile, however, and at 2 A. M. today the breaks occurred.

Warning previous had been sent out and officials here expressed the belief no casualties had occurred.

Newport, Ark., June 16.—Several hundred families fled to higher ground when the Stevens levee, on the White river, broke and turned loose a great flood of water which swept over a large area. None were believed caught in the flood.

Four towns in the path of the flood were in danger of inundation. They are: Tupeko, Weldon, Shoffner and Auverne.

In their flight from the flooded lowlands families carried with them household equipment and clothing.

Livestock was driven out of the flood zone to safety.

Memphis, Tenn., June 16. — All available men and boats in the federal river service here have been sent to points on the St. Francis and White rivers, where further breaks in levees threaten. Fifty thousand sacks for sand and gravel filler have been purchased for the work.

PRES. COOLIDGE ARRIVES AT BRULE, WIS.

302 RESIDENTS OF TOWN BASK IN SEARCHLIGHT PROMINENCE

TODAY MILLION PEOPLE DEBATING PRONUNCIATION OF TOWN'S NAME

Brule, Wis., June 16. — (UP) — The president has come to Brule.

To the rest of the United States that may not carry an unusual significance, but to the 302 residents of Brule the day of Mr. Coolidge's arrival was something of infinitely more importance than the Fourth of July or the weekly band concert night.

Less than a month ago Brule was unknown. Today a million persons were debating its proper pronunciation; (it is pronounced as though rhymed with school). Its real estate boom, which sent rental rocketing 700 per cent, shames the boom that made Florida famous.

The 302 residents of Brule are not concerned with the fact that Mr. Coolidge spent less than two minutes in the hamlet's unincorporated limits, that he did not leave the motar car which crawled along its main street at a snail pace, and that Mrs. Coolidge did not come to Brule at all.

The 302 residents turned out in full force. Babies stood with their hands in their mouths, their fathers stood with their hands in their pockets, and Brule's younger feminine set quarreled as to the exact shade of the president's hair.

Anyway, Brule waved its hand at President Coolidge, and then began touching up main street and erecting more concession stands across from the railroad shed.

The fact that the president would pass along Main street again today en route to his executive offices at Superior, however, did cause a flutter. Crowds began to collect about the three town pumps, talking excitedly. Presidents do not parade along the main street of Brule every day.

Meanwhile, at Cedar Island Lodge Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were getting settled comfortably in their woodland home The president was well pleased with the peaceful one-story house, cool and fragrant with lilacs. He also derived much pleasure from a tour of the secluded grounds, in which E. M. Lambert, superintendent, pointed out the favorite trout pools on the estate.

Candidates File Expense Bills, Senator Rockne Spending Most in Primary Race

SPEECH THAT NOMINATED HERBERT HOOVER

KNOWN AS AMERICA'S GREATEST ADMINISTRATOR IN HUMAN WELFARE

ACTED WELL IN EMERGENCIES OF WORLD WIDE APPEAL

The Brainerd Dispatch, which was a supporter of Hoover before the county republican convention held at the court house, has felt from the beginning that this man is the right man for the presidency. Those who know him best, are his best supporters. We have men on the Cuyuna iron range and in Brainerd who are personally acquainted with Mr. Hoover.

When John L. McNab, San Francisco, nominated Mr. Hoover in convention he presented in tabloid fashion some of the achievements of a man who has qualified as one of the greatest administrators. His address in full follows:

California's delegation, elected by 600,000 voters in an uncontested primary, presents to you for the presidency of the United States America's greatest administrator in human welfare—Herbert Hoover.

This historic party of achievement has never been able to submit to the American people a greater record of constructive human action than the administration of Calvin Coolidge. And of the constructive part of that administration, from its inception, Herbert Hoover has been a vital and intimate part.

History will not overlook the fact that the execution of the great emergency measures of the administration have been committed by the president to his secretary of commerce.

At the age of four, death took his father from beside the forge in the state of Iowa. That loss was compensated in the life which followed for he was reared in the sweet and tolerant atmosphere of an American Quaker home.

The spirit of forbearance and patience which has marked his career through life was bred in him by those who guided the steps of his infancy.

The call came overseas from his beloved homeland. The United States had cast her lot in the great struggle. He was named food administrator.

Full well he understood that the proper execution of the task would probably mean the graveyard of all political hope. From the day he was appointed, he insisted that the one essential group in America that must have protection was the American farmer. To quicken production; to stimulate industry; to feed armies at a price that governments could afford to pay; to resist the mercantile profiteer, and to see that the farmer received the just return for his product was a task that called for both statesmanship and courage.

Europe repudiated its contracts to buy the hogs and wheat of American farmers. Damming back that flood on the markets of the United States meant ruin for which our agriculturists would not have recovered in a quarter of a century.

It would require the gratitude of a generation of farm producers to repay Herbert Hoover for his efforts to save the whole industry from collapse. Only by an administrator with a spirit of proophecy to foresee the impending tragedy could the task have been accomplished. Only a man possessing the respect of European powers could have exacted the agreements he demanded.

He compelled the disposal in Europe of the huge surplus of farm products. To him is due the early opening of the blockade on Germany. Had it not been for his prestige and his genius of persuasion the doors of Europe would have been locked to the product of our fields and American agriculture would have crashed beyond all hop eof recovery.

This great economist has solved every other economic problem that has come within his reach in a spirit of equality and justice. He who has mastered every other problem can be trusted by the American farm producer to propose the measures that will bring lasting relief to the agriculture of the United States.

The world's greatest war broke suddenly over a startled world. He, with countless Americans, chanced to be in the city of London. The great war machine rolled over Belgium leaving starvation and ruin in its wake.

He heard the old cry that for over a hundred years has run out over the waters of an angry sea—"women and children first." He heard the cry and answered. In the presence of gaunt and tottering children he knew neither friend nor foe To him, hunger and innocence knew no nationality. Millions knocked at hunger's gate.

To organize relief; to secure the funds to buy foodstuffs; to ship them across seas that swarmed with submarines; to negotiate with governments, to get food to the starving and the starving to the food—here was a task such as never before confronted man. The feeding of those hungry children is the greatest practical romance in history.

For the first time in history, torrential rains fell in thirty states at the same time. Six hundred thousand were homeless; cities were flooded; the great and noble south saw its richest possessions go under the deluge.

To whom should the president turn in such an hour of crisis?

To whom but to the man whose name we present to you this day.

Within a week, in conjunction with the American Red Cross, the secretaries of the Army and Navy, he had telegraph lines strung, foodstuffs moving, and the noble and splendid leaders of the south, most of whom were of a political faith not his own, from New Orleans to Memphis, organized for instant service.

This work has won for him the gratitude of unnumbered Americans whose stalwart faith has led them through the retreating waters to build their homes once more beside the great lagoons.

Our people are aroused to the need of a strong, courageous man to carry forward hte constructive policies of a great administration.

Since the great war the United States has become the center of the economic and industrial world. Vast forces fraught with evil if uncontrolled, freighted with blessings if understood, are in motion.

No one is so fitted by years of training and experience; no one is so adapted by temperament and sympathy to direct these forces to the betterment of his country as this wholesome son of the sturdy forebears of the middle west.

All the world knows his public service, but only the few understand his graciousness and kindliness as a human being. He is no super-man in private life. He loves his friends. He likes to laugh and play.

And now we dedicate this man to a greater public service.

His nomination will kindle a brighter faith in the breasts of all who love America and wish to keep her a living symbol of the world's best hope.

I name him who rose from poverty to feed more hungry people than any man in the history of the world.

I nominate him because he has labored with his hands and knows the problem of the toiler.

I name him as a great engineer who understands the problems of our inland waterways and the vast resources of river and lake and soil.

I name him as a great humanitarian, who in the midst of a woe of war gave his best that human beings might live and live abundantly.

I nominate him because as administrator of great projects he has never failed to leave a record of surpassing usefuiness.

I name him as statesman and executive whose unfaltering courage, inflexible Americanism and understanding of nations and people have given him a grasp on national and international affairs that commands respect throughout the world.

I nominate him for his lofty character as a man and citizen; for his broad and kindly human sympathies; for his wholesome heart that rejoices above all things else that he has been useful to the people of his native land.

SENATOR CURTIS GETS WELCOME FROM TOWNSMEN

Topeka, Kan., June 16.—(U.P.)—An old fashioned celebration greeted Senator Charles Curtis, vice presidential nominee, on his return home.

When the news of his nomination at the republican national convention at Kansas City reached Topeka, citizens turned out and hastily decorated the streets.

A speakers' stand was erected on the steps of the state house and two bands were mobilized. Senator Curtis, who had been driven by automobile to his home by his son lead the parade from the Curtis home to the state house grounds.

Thousands of persons joined in the March and shouted their praise for the honors which a native son had brought home.

MILL CITY BOY SHOOTS BOB CAT 2 MILES FROM LOOP

Minneapolis, June 16.—(U.P.)—Hubert Barker, 17, demonstrated that Minnesotans need not go to the north woods for hunting when he shot a full-grown bob cat two miles from the loop district of Minneapolis.

Hubert spied the animal in a tree near the University of Minnesota and brought it to the ground with three bullets from a .22 calibre rifle.

Hunting authorities believe the bob cat came here from the Red Wing, Minn., river bluff district.

GIRL OF SEVEN HAS 12,000 FOSTER FATHERS

IS DAUGHTER OF AMERICAN WAR VETERAN AND FRENCH BRIDE

MEMBERS OF 28TH DIVISION, PENNSYLVANIA, HAVE INTEREST IN GIRL

New York, June 16.—(U.P.)—A little girl of 7 years, daughter of an American war veteran and his French bride, is the most fathered child in the world.

Twelve thousand foster-fathers, members of the 28th (Iron) division of Pennsylvania have an interest in Rachel Eaton, whose father, Captain James Eaton, former American soldier, died in the Bellevue hospital today.

Emaciated and worn from the ravages of tuberculosis, Eaton was brought to this country on the liner George Washington in answer to his plea to die in his native land.

On board the George Washington were 280 members of the 28th division of the Pennsylvania national guard who had been in France dedicating three memorials to men of their state who "went west" in the world war.

Before the ship had warped into her pier here, the veterans had adopted Rachel. They will care for her and educate her.

A fund of $3,000 was collected on board for Captain Eaton. When it was offered him, he smiled wanly and said, "give it to Rachel. I can't live much longer."

Eaton said that he had married a French girl after the war and that she died two years ago.

CLUB WOMEN CLOSE MEETING AT JACKSON

Jackson, Minn., June 16.—(U.P.)—Club women of 55 towns and villages of the second federated district closed their annual convention with election of officers.

Mrs. S. M. Hanson, Tylor, was elected vice president. All other offices were filled by re-election.

M. I. Tynan, St. Paul, superintendent of the state board of control department for the blind, was the chief speaker of the conference.

SENATOR McNARY CALLS ON HOOVER

Washington, June 16.—(U.P.)—Sen. Charles L. McNary, republican, Oregon, co-author of the defeated McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, called on Herbert Hoover today to discuss the farm situation with the republican presidential nominee. Two two were closeted about an hour.

McNary would say nothing about the conference when he left Hoover's office but announced he would issue a statement later in the day.

ORNITHOPTER SOMERSAULTS; FLIER INJURED

St. Augustine, Fla., June 16.—(U.P.)—Captain George W. White was slightly injured here today when his ornithopter somersaulted while being towed along the beach in a trial flight. He was pinned beneath the wreckage and when pulled free was found slightly cut on the chest. The ornithopter is a wing-flapping contraption propelled by pedals in which White expects to fly unaided.

SEN. McNARY HAS CONFERENCE WITH NOMINEE

CO-AUTHOR OF McNARY-HAUGEN BILL MAKES STATEMENT

McNARY HOPES FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION WILL SOON BE ENACTED

Washington, June 16.—(UP) — Senator Charles L. McNary, co-author of the McNary-Haugen "stabilization fee" farm relief bill vetoed by President Coolidge and rejected by the republican convention, announced after a conference with Secretary Hoover today that he found the nominee "sympathetic and anxious to relieve the distress of our farm population."

"I bespeak for the 7,000,000 farmers and their able leaders the same fine offer of assistance and co-operation, to the end that farm relief legislation may be enacted and approved at the next session of congress," McNary said in a statement, emphasizing that the McNary-Haugen bill, "with the ommission of the equalization fee" would improve the farmers' condition.

"At least it would supply the basis upon which helpful legislative action could be fashioned," he said.

McNary said, however, that he still believed in the "soundness and fairness" of his bill's equalization fee plan.

"The necessity for some measure of relief is so imperative as to warrant the suggestion that differences of opinion must be composed and a common ground found for successful congressional action," he added.

After seeing McNary, Hoover took plans of the new commerce department building out to the bureau of standards to confer with experts on some controverted construction questions.

On his way to the elevator, Thos. J. Casey, Seattle lawyer, stopped hte secretary and requested him to autograph a baseball. Hoover was somewhat confused by the unusual request.

Casey explained the ball had been autographed by Tyrus Cobb, Babe Ruth, Speaker and other baseball celebrities and that he desired to get Hoover's signature on it before he presented it to a small daughter. Hoover drew a fountain pen from his pocket and autographed the ball.

Hoover lunched at his home today, then planned to return to his desk to clean up departmental matters so that he will be free from his cabinet work to hold conferences next week with political leaders who are returning here from Kansas City.

BOLL PLANE TO FLY TO FRANCE

Harbor Grace, N. F., June 16.—(U.P.)—The flight of the trans-Atlantic airplane Columbia, in which Miss Mabel Boll will be a passenger, probably will be to France, it was indicated today.

Weather conditions today were unfavorable for the trans-Atlantic takeoff, but all of the members of the Columbia's crew felt certain they soon would be away.

Miss Boll particularly was one of the most eager of her flight party.

Captain Oliver C. Leboutillier said he had the greatest sympathy with the Friendship inasmuch as it had only about a speed of 90 miles an hour whereas the Columbia had a speed of about 110 miles an hour.

St. John's, N. F., June 16.—(U.P.)—Miss Amelia Earhart and her two companions, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, still were held on land today by weather conditions adverse to a trans-Atlantic flight in their plane Friendship.

The trio has been here nearly three weeks, waiting patiently for clearing weather.

A flight probably will be made some time today.

British Baskets Best

The osier industry is one of the oldest handicrafts, and no machine has yet been invented for making osier or wicker baskets. But the art will soon be a lost one in England if basket and cane workers are not encouraged. Even now most shops are relying on German and Japanese basketry, which has a novel appearance but is of inferior quality.—London Mail.

He heard the old cry that for over a hundred years has run out over the waters of an angry sea—"women and children first." He heard the cry and answered. In the presence of gaunt and tottering children he knew neither friend nor fo.e To him, hunger and innocence knew no nationality. Millions knocked at hunger's gate.

To organize relief; to secure the funds to buy foodstuffs; to ship them across seas that swarmed with submarines; to negotiate with governments, to get food to the starving and the starving to the food—here was a task such as never before confronted man. The feeding of those hungry children is the greatest practical romance in history.

For the first time in history, torrential rains fell in thirty states at the same time. Six hundred thousand were homeless; cities were flooded; the great and noble south saw its richest possessions go under the deluge.

To whom should the president turn in such an hour of crisis?

To whom but to the man whose name we present to you this day.

Within a week, in conjunction with the American Red Cross, the secretaries of the Army and Navy, he had telegraph lines strung, foodstuffs moving, and the noble and splendid leaders of the south, most of whom were of a political faith not his own, from New Orleans to Memphis, organized for instant service.

This work has won for him the gratitude of unnumbered Americans whose stalwart faith has led them through the retreating waters to build their homes once more beside the great lagoons.

Our people are aroused to the need of a strong, courageous man to carry forward hte constructive policies of a great administration.

Since the great war the United States has become the center of the economic and industrial world. Vast forces fraught with evil if uncontrolled, freighted with blessings if understood, are in motion.

No one is so fitted by years of training and experience; no one is so adapted by temperament and sympathy to direct these forces to the betterment of his country as this wholesome son of the sturdy forebears of the middle west.

All the world knows his public service, but only the few understand his graciousness and kindliness as a human being. He is no super-man in private life. He loves his friends. He likes to laugh and play.

And now we dedicate this man to a greater public service.

His nomination will kindle a brighter faith in the breasts of all who love America and wish to keep her a living symbol of the world's best hope.

I name him who rose from poverty to feed more hungry people than any man in the history of the world.

I nominate him because he has labored with his hands and knows the problem of the toiler.

I name him as a great engineer who understands the problems of our inland waterways and the vast resources of river and lake and soil.

I name him as a great humanitarian, who in the midst of a woe of war gave his best that human beings might live and live abundantly.

I nominate him because as administrator of great projects he has never failed to leave a record of surpassing usefulness.

I name him as statesman and executive whose unfaltering courage, inflexible Americanism and understanding of nations and people have given him a grasp on national and international affairs that commands respect throughout the world.

I nominate him for his lofty character as a man and citizen; for his broad and kindly human sympathies; for his wholesome heart that rejoices above all things else that he has been useful to the people of his native land.

MILL CITY BOY SHOOTS BOB CAT 2 MILES FROM LOOP

Minneapolis, June 16.—(U.P.)—Hubert Barker, 17, demonstrated that Minnesotans need not go to the north woods for hunting when he shot a full-grown bob cat two miles from the loop district of Minneapolis.

Hubert spied the animal in a tree near the University of Minnesota and brought it to the ground with three bullets from a .22 calibre rifle.

Hunting authorities believe the bob cat came here from the Red Wing, Minn., river bluff district.

GIRL OF SEVEN HAS 12,000 FOSTER FATHERS

IS DAUGHTER OF AMERICAN WAR VETERAN AND FRENCH BRIDE

MEMBERS OF 28TH DIVISION, PENNSYLVANIA, HAVE INTEREST IN GIRL

New York, June 16.—(U.P.)—A little girl of 7 years, daughter of an American war veteran and his French bride, is the most fathered child in the world.

Twelve thousand foster-fathers, members of the 28th (Iron) division of Pennsylvania have an interest in Rachel Eaton, whose father, Captain James Eaton, former American soldier, died in the Bellevue hospital today.

Emaciated and worn from the ravages of tuberculosis, Eaton was brought to this country on the liner George Washington in answer to his plea to die in his native land.

On board the George Washington were 280 members of the 28th division of the Pennsylvania national guard who had been in France dedicating three memorials to men of their state who "went west" in the world war.

Before the ship had warped into her pier here, the veterans had adopted Rachel. They will care for her and educate her.

A fund of $3,000 was collected on board for Captain Eaton. When it was offered him, he smiled wanly and said, "give it to Rachel. I can't live much longer."

Eaton said that he had married a French girl after the war and that she died two years ago.

SENATOR McNARY CALLS ON HOOVER

Washington, June 16.—(U.P.)—Sen. Charles L. McNary, republican, Oregon, co-author of the defeated McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, called on Herbert Hoover today to discuss the farm situation with the republican presidential nominee. Two two were closeted about an hour.

McNary would say nothing about the conference when he left Hoover's office but announced he would issue a statement later in the day.

ORNITHOPTER SOMERSAULTS; FLIER INJURED

St. Augustine, Fla., June 16.—(U.P.)—Captain George W. White was slightly injured here today when his ornithopter somersaulted while being towed along the beach in a trial flight. SEN. McNARY HAS CONFERENCE WITH NOMINEE

CO-AUTHOR OF McNARY-HAUGEN BILL MAKES STATEMENT

McNARY HOPES FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION WILL SOON BE ENACTED

Washington, June 16.—(UP) — Senator Charles L. McNary, co-author of the McNary-Haugen "stabilization fee" farm relief bill vetoed by President Coolidge and rejected by the republican convention, announced after a conference with Secretary Hoover today that he found the nominee "sympathetic and anxious to relieve the distress of our farm population."

"I bespeak for the 7,000,000 farmers and their able leaders the same fine offer of assistance and co-operation, to the end that farm relief legislation may be enacted and approved at the next session of congress," McNary said in a statement, emphasizing that the McNary-Haugen bill, "with the ommission of the equalization fee" would improve the farmers' condition.

"At least it would supply the basis upon which helpful legislative action could be fashioned," he said.

McNary said, however, that he still believed in the "soundness and fairness" of his bill's equalization fee plan.

"The necessity for some measure of relief is so imperative as to warrant the suggestion that differences of opinion must be composed and a common ground found for successful congressional action," he added.

After seeing McNary, Hoover took plans of the new commerce department building out to the bureau of standards to confer with experts on some controverted construction questions.

On his way to the elevator, Thos. J. Casey, Seattle lawyer, stopped hte secretary and requested him to autograph a baseball. Hoover was somewhat confused by the unusual request.

Casey explained the ball had been autographed by Tyrus Cobb, Babe Ruth, Speaker and other baseball celebrities and that he desired to get Hoover's signature on it before he presented it to a small daughter. Hoover drew a fountain pen from his pocket and autographed the ball.

Hoover lunched at his home today, then planned to return to his desk to clean up departmental matters so that he will be free from his cabinet work to hold conferences next week with political leaders who are returning here from Kansas City.

BOLL PLANE TO FLY TO FRANCE

Harbor Grace, N. F., June 16.—(U.P.)—The flight of the trans-Atlantic airplane Columbia, in which Miss Mabel Boll will be a passenger, probably will be to France, it was indicated today.

Weather conditions today were unfavorable for the trans-Atlantic takeoff, but all of the members of the Columbia's crew felt certain they soon would be away.

Miss Boll particularly was one of the most eager of her flight party.

Captain Oliver C. Leboutillier said he had the greatest sympathy with the Friendship inasmuch as it had only about a speed of 90 miles an hour whereas the Columbia had a speed of about 110 miles an hour.

St. John's, N. F., June 16.—(U.P.)—Miss Amelia Earhart and her two companions, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, still were held on land today by weather conditions adverse to a trans-Atlantic flight in their plane Friendship.

The trio has been here nearly three weeks, waiting patiently for clearing weather.

A flight probably will be made some time today.

The osier industry is one of the oldest handicrafts, and no machine has yet been invented for making osier or wicker baskets. But the art will soon be a lost one in England if basket and cane workers are not encouraged. The Domineering Sweetheart

Executive.

Domineering.

One may have much executive capacity without being domineering. One of the most pronounced signs of executive activity and desire to carry through one's own ideas is the straight, horizontal stroke at the end of words or within the words themselves. The writing of Napoleon, Garibaldi, and Gladstone abounds with strokes like these.

Capitals like W, M, H, which begin with a straight, concise single stroke downward, also show the individual who wishes to lead in some form or other.

If these signs are coupled with other signs which mean selfishness or cruelty, we have a domineering nature. Terminals curling back to the left, tightly bound and closed a's, o's, and s's, cruel, dagger like t bars, and vain fat loops to the y's and g's would turn one with executive desires into a selfish domineering nature.

But the long horizontal line by itself, minus the selfish signs combined with it does not mean domineering qualities. Very often the best executive is too generous to be really understood by those who must take his orders.

The Story in the i Dot

When the little dot that covers the i is placed on the paper, the writer stamps his trademark or character seal for the reader to see whether he knows it or not.

The dot that is placed high indicates that the writer has ideals that are above the ordinary. If it is just the reverse or low, you will find one who is a hard worker but who, perhaps, misapplies his energy. The writer who makes the dot low is content to look at things close at hand. Little vision is found in this writer but he is always a good reasoner.

When i dots are made to the left of the upright, the writer is always found to be slow or behind time. He is hesitant and fearful inwardly, although he might not realize it himself.

If the dots are made to the right in the shape of a dash, the writer will be found to be rapid in mental action and always ready to take action before the other fellow thinks of it. These writers are usually ahead of time and impatient and restless. If dots are made in a triangular shape, the writer is mathematical.

The Domineering Sweetheart

Enclosed
Executive.
Domination
Domineering.

One may have much executive capacity without being domineering. One of the most pronounced signs of executive activity and desire to carry through one's own ideas is the straight, horizontal stroke at the end of words or within the words themselves. The writing of Napoleon, Garibaldi, and Gladstone abounds with strokes like these.

Capitals like W, M, H, which begin with a straight, concise single stroke downward, also show the individual who wishes to lead in some form or other.

If these signs are coupled with other signs which mean selfishness or cruelty, we have a domineering nature. Terminals curling back to the left, tightly bound and closed a's, o's, and s's, cruel, dagger like t bars, and vain fat loops to the y's and g's would turn one with executive desires into a selfish domineering nature.

But the long horizontal line by itself, minus the selfish signs combined with it does not mean domineering qualities. Very often the best executive is too generous to be really understood by those who must take his orders.

The Story in the i Dot

When the little dot that covers the i is placed on the paper, the writer stamps his trademark or character seal for the reader to see whether he knows it or not.

i plodding

The dot that is placed high indicates that the writer has ideals that are above the ordinary. If it is just the reverse or low, you will find one who is a hard worker but who, perhaps, misapplies his energy. The writer who makes the dot low is content to look at things close at hand. Little vision is found in this writer but he is always a good reasoner.

i idealistic

i speedy

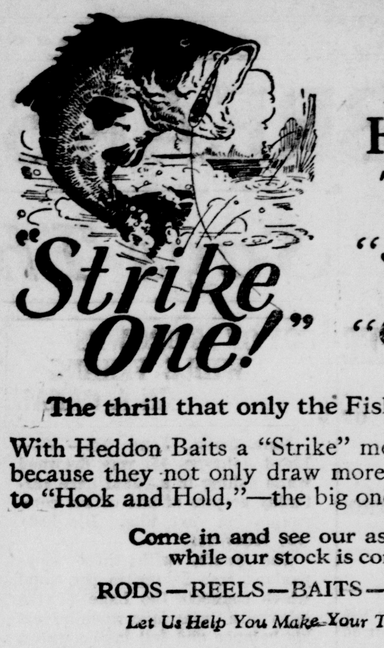

When i dots are made to the left of the upright, the writer is always found to be slow or behind time. He is hesitant and fearful inwardly, although he might not realize it himself.

If the dots are made to the right in the shape of a dash, the writer will be found to be rapid in mental action and always ready to take action before the other fellow thinks of it. These writers are usually ahead of time and impatient and restless. If dots are made in a triangular shape, the writer is mathematical.

REBABBITTING SERVICE CONNECTION

The Willys Overland Company have just announced that they have appointed the Watkins Rebabbitting Service as official and exclusive rebabbitters for all of their various models and makes of cars. They have taken this step after thoroughly investigating Watkins products, service and business policies, with the view of aiding their branches, distributors and dealers in promptly supplying service of a quality approved by the Willys-Overland Company, both as to materials and workmanship, on connecting rod bearings. This makes it possible for Willys-Overland dealers and distributors, in repairing Overland or Willys Knight cars, to secure genuine connecting rod bearings on an exchange basis anywhere in the country, in a few hours, from one of the national chain of Watkins plants.

The Watkins Rebabbitting Service, an organization of engine bearing specialists, with headquarters at Wichita, Kansas, has made a specialty of this work for the past ten years, and with the growth of demand for their product have gradually established a series of 17 branch factories covering the entire country.

For quite sometime, the Watkins Rebabbitting Service has been the official and exclusive rebabbitters for the Buick Motor Company, the White Company (builders of the White Truck) and the Locomobile Company of America.

THE CITY OF THE PINES

USING the caption, "The City of the Pines," the St. Cloud Daily Times published a most appreciative editorial concerning Brainerd and spreads its fame and hospitality as a convention host. The editorial is from the pen of Editor Fred Schilplin and states:

"The genuine hospitality extended by the citizens of Brainerd to the members of the State Historical society on the occasion of their annual tour and visit to the historic site of old Fort Ripley will long be pleasantly remembered by those who participated in the convention in the City of the Pines yesterday.

"Most interesting was 'the story of old Fort Ripley' told by Judge Louis B. Kinder, historian of the Crow Wing County Historical society, to the gathering of the convention in the beautiful tourist park on the east side of the Mississippi just across the river in sight of the old Fort. It was difficult to visualize that but 70 years ago this Fort had been the military outpost of the frontier placed there for the protection of the settlers of Central Minnesota. Beside the tree shaded park a constant stream of automobiles was passing on the paved highway. Passenger trains thundered past on the Northern Pacific transcontinental line. The first of these trains reached Brainerd on March 11, 1871, and regular service opened in the fall of that year.

"Today Brainerd is a beautiful, thriving and modern city in the center of the Ten Thousand lakes district. On the shores of these lakes are thousands of summer cottages and summer resorts. In the countryside the settler's shack and the homesteader's log house has given way to prosperous and well-kept farms stocked with fine cattle. Numerous fields of alfalfa are appearing.

"The city of Brainerd itself has more than kept in advance of the rapid development of this part of the state. Today it is a beautiful modern city, its business men progressive, its industries thriving. It has well-paved streets, excellent hotels which serve as stopping places for the thousands of tourists bound for the lakes and summer resorts. Its fine modern Elks home is a credit to the city and the spirit of community building of that distinctive American fraternity. It is modern in every respect, a most welcome home to the antlered herd who roam to the northern lakes for health, pleasure and recreation every summer.

"From a rough lumbering town of its early days Brainerd has become a city of cuture and education. It is building now one of the finest high schools in the northern part of the state. Brainerd is a musical center for the Ten Thousand lakes region. Its choral society has just won first prize at the Sixth District Federation of Women's clubs at Walker and it boasts two women's bands. One of them furnished the music for the gathering of the State Historical convention at Fort Ripley. In gold and blue caped uniforms they were truly told that they were the most colorful band in the setting of the spreading green trees. They symbolized the change that had taken place in 70 years. For 70 years ago where they stood yesterday, war-painted and feather-bedecked Indians had rampaged on the war path. Such is the transfiguration which has taken place in northern Minnesota in less than half a century."

Mrs. Maude C. Schilplin, wife of the editor and publisher of the St. Cloud Daily Times, wrote a most illuminating and colorful review of the State Historical Society's convention. It extended a full half page and was given decided prominence in the society and club section of the paper of June 14th.

Brainerd is glad, at all times, to entertain a convention and expresses thanks for the splendid publicity accorded.

CANADA AND THE SEAWAY

A REVIEW of the correspondence between the government of the United States and Canada touching the proposed Great Lakes seaway suggests that the Canadian officials are holding back for tactical reasons. The impression they would make upon us is that Canada is not much concerned to have the seaway realized, considering its interest less clear and substantial than our own. The King government's attitude seems to be: we are not keen about the matter but are willing to consider it if you will offer us attractive terms.

Our state department, we have no doubt, will not be deceived by so naive an approach. Canada's interest in the development of the seaway is not concealed by the differences of Canadian sectional opinion or party policy. Canada is already committed to the expenditure of over a hundred million dollars for an enlargement of the Welland canal, an enlargement which would be useless unless the seaway is completed. What is the good of a 25-foot channel, capable of receiving seagoing ships, if the St. Lawrence from Ontario to Montreal remains as it is?

We think the King government is ill advised in trying to deal with Washington in the tactics of a horse trade. A great international project deserves to be considered upon a higher and sounder level.—Chicago Tribune.

THE REPUBLICAN KEYNOTE

THE custom of opening the national nominating conventions with an extended speech of praise for the party record, either in power or out, is dignified by long usage. Senator Fess' keynote speech of Tuesday at Kansas City was a wholly unexceptional example of this type of political harangue. From introduction through to the final eloquent tribute to the retiring President and party leader, the speech followed closely the classical models. Senator Fess left nothing unsaid that under the present circumstances was the right thing to say; he included nothing that would have been the wrong thing to say.

The keynoter at the Democratic convention to follow, Claude Bowers, will have a somewhat different assignment from that of Senator Fess. Mr. Bowers will have no administrative record of the past eight years to which to point. He will perforce be limited to glories of the past and recent achievements of opposition, together with promises for the future. Yet the lines for a keynote speech for a party out of power are just as clearly established as for one in power. Mr. Bowers' chances of breaking those lines are about the same as Senator Fess had on Tuesday.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

End of Embalming Era

Dr. Walter Hough, head curator of anthropology, Smithsonian institution, states that embalming by the Egyptians ceased about the end of the Fourth century, A. D., because of the spread of Christianity; that the Christians did not embalm the dead as the Egyptians did, but did wrap them in cloth robes.

Easy Way to Dry Fish

Curious use is made of the rigging of a fishing schooner, putting out from Havana, Cuba, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Instead of taking the catch ashore for drying, the fish are hung on the lines of the rig where they are safe, comparatively free from dirt and exposed to the sun at all times of the day.

GERMANS START HUNT FOR AMBER

Whole Village Digs for Prussian "Gold."

Palmnicken, Germany.—With frost out of the ground, quarrying for amber has started again at the great Prussian amber mining works here, only plant of its kind in the world.

Palmnicken lives on amber. The whole village of 800 people is employed in the plant.

Amber, "Prussian gold," was traded at this little spot on the Baltic coast with the ancient Phoenicians. Fishermen dredged for it in earlier days, but more recently it has been dug out of the blue clay.

Great hoppers bring up cars of clay from an area a square mile in extent. The clay is washed for amber in much the same way as auriferous earth is washed for gold. Each season about 3,000,000 cubic meters of soil are moved.

Amber is found in clusters. The pieces are picked out and washed with sand in great revolving drums. An army of girls sits at a running band and picks out six recognized standard qualities.

Every year the "crop" runs to about 125,000 pounds but only one-third of this is suitable for beads and ornaments. The rest is ground to powder to make "pressed" amber, or melted down to make varnish and colophony. Amber oil and acid are by-products obtained by distillation.

Pieces of seven or eight pounds weight are not rare, but the biggest single lump ever found here weighed about fifteen pounds.

In the laboratory, pieces of amber of all shades and sizes are kept—bright amber, pale-yellow amber, plain and with flies, bugs or tiny leaves imbedded in them, dating from the tertiary period when coniferous forests flourished here in a subtropical climate.

The most valuable amber bears the quaint name of "sauerkraut" because it is of a pale-yellow tinge and has markings suggesting strands of cut cabbage.

Proper Time to Cut Hair

Haircuts should be avoided when the moon is full, according to a London seer, who declares that hair, like other vegetation, contains more "sap" at that time. It should be cut just before the new moon, he says, presumably because the sap is then in the head and not in the hair.—Elgin Recorder.

Midget Coal Mine

The smallest coal mine in Great Britain is probably one situated high up on the Yorkshire moors, at Tan Hill. It is worked by five men who have made a tunnel into the hillside nearly two miles long. The coal, which is of good quality, is sold retail at $5 a ton, but it has to be fetched. Farmers who come with carts form the mine's best customers.

Finished payments on old Court House.

Built and fully PAID for steel and concrete bridge across the Mississippi.

Adopted a program to put Crow Wing County entirely OUT of DEBT by 1930.

Established a modern system of continuous road maintenance of 165 miles of White Line Roads.

Built and fully PAID for 82 miles of Modern Roads.

This experience has made me familiar with the County's Business. Your support for re-election will be appreciated.

Candidate for Representative, 53rd Legislative District, for Re-election at the Primaries
June 18th, 1928

MY RECORD---

I have given my best and most faithful service for the last 10 years for the welfare of my district and the general good of the state.

If nominated and elected will continue to do the same.

I have heretofore given and will continue to give earnest consideration to all legislative matters relative to Crow Wing county.

1. In 1919 was author of the Marl Bill by which the state has been the richer by far in the use of this natural product.
2. Was author of the law by which the state conducted a line of experiments with low grade ore that eventually returned a net profit to the state of thousands of dollars.
3. Through Mr. Long's low grade ore bill the amount of ore mined and marketed in Crow Wing county has increased to that extent that fifty per cent of the taxes paid in the county are paid by the mining interests. The state is receiving about $100,000.00 income from ore that previous to this law was worthless on the market.
4. Co-author of the Gross Earnings Tax Law by which Brainerd has received annually since 1921; $10,000.00 for municipal purposes and $28,000.00 for school purposes.
5. Co-author of the Mothers' Pension Bill that became a law whereby the state would help the counties in increasing Mothers' Pensions. Although at each session of the legislature he has presented an appropriation bill to cover this, he has been unsuccessful in getting it passed, owing to the opposition of the southern part of the state.
6. Was co-author of Rural School State Aid Bill that has given the rural school special state aid.
7. Presented and backed the Pequot Community petition, the first in the state, to bring a portion of the gas tax into the county road and bridge fund.
8. Was co-author of the Farmers Cooperation bill that became a state law and was later adopted by the Federal Government.
9. Has been chairman of the 6th Congressional District comprising eleven counties and consisting of fourteen legislative members out of which Mr. Long has been responsible for this district receiving seven committee chairmanships and all the members on good substantial committees.
10. Has promoted labor legislation and has been co-author of many labor bills in the legislature.
11. Obtained a state appropriation to reimburse the village of Crosby for Armory expense to the amount of $3,000.
12. Was author of the Cemetery Act by which purchasers of cemetery lots could have deeds recorded the same as deeds of other real estate.
13. Author of the Court House Bill that made it possible for Crow Wing County and other counties to build Court Houses without voting bonds, thereby saving thousands of dollars. The Court House at Brainerd has been fully paid for through this law.
14. Was author of the special act by which newspapers were paid six months earlier than formerly for printing the amendments.

Midget Coal Mine

The smallest coal mine in Great Britain is probably one situated high up on the Yorkshire moors, at Tan Hill. It is worked by five men who have made a tunnel into the hillside nearly two miles long. The coal, which is of good quality, is sold retail at $5 a ton, but it has to be fetched. Farmers who come with carts form the mine's best customers.

P. J. LONG
Candidate for Representative, 53rd Legislative District, for Re-election at the Primaries
June 18th, 1928

MY RECORD---

I have given my best and most faithful service for the last 10 years for the welfare of my district and the general good of the state.

If nominated and elected will continue to do the same.

I have heretofore given and will continue to give earnest consideration to all legislative matters relative to Crow Wing county.

1. In 1919 was author of the Marl Bill by which the state has been the richer by far in the use of this natural product.
2. Was author of the law by which the state conducted a line of experiments with low grade ore that eventually returned a net profit to the state of thousands of dollars.
3. Through Mr. Long's low grade ore bill the amount of ore mined and marketed in Crow Wing county has increased to that extent that fifty per cent of the taxes paid in the county are paid by the mining interests. The state is receiving about $100,000.00 income from ore that previous to this law was worthless on the market.
4. Co-author of the Gross Earnings Tax Law by which Brainerd has received annually since 1921; $10,000.00 for municipal purposes and $28,000.00 for school purposes.
5. Co-author of the Mothers' Pension Bill that became a law whereby the state would help the counties in increasing Mothers' Pensions. Although at each session of the legislature he has presented an appropriation bill to cover this, he has been unsuccessful in getting it passed, owing to the opposition of the southern part of the state.
6. Was co-author of Rural School State Aid Bill that has given the rural school special state aid.
7. Presented and backed the Pequot Community petition, the first in the state, to bring a portion of the gas tax into the county road and bridge fund.
8. Was co-author of the Farmers Cooperation bill that became a state law and was later adopted by the Federal Government.
9. Has been chairman of the 6th Congressional District comprising eleven counties and consisting of fourteen legislative members out of which Mr. Long has been responsible for this district receiving seven committee chairmanships and all the members on good substantial committees.
10. Has promoted labor legislation and has been co-author of many labor bills in the legislature.
11. Obtained a state appropriation to reimburse the village of Crosby for Armory expense to the amount of $3,000.
12. Was author of the Cemetery Act by which purchasers of cemetery lots could have deeds recorded the same as deeds of other real estate.
13. Author of the Court House Bill that made it possible for Crow Wing County and other counties to build Court Houses without voting bonds, thereby saving thousands of dollars. The Court House at Brainerd has been fully paid for through this law.
14. Was author of the special act by which newspapers were paid six months earlier than formerly for printing the amendments.

SHADE, FLUSHED WITH WIN, CHALLENGES MICKEY WALKER

SHADE DEFEATED COURTNEY IN A 10 ROUND FIGHT

NOW CHALLENGES WALKER, MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPION

COURTNEY PROTESTED INJUSTICE OF JUDGES' DECISION

New York, June 16.—(U.P.)—Dave Shade, California middleweight, today challenged Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, to a title bout as a result of his victory over George Courtney, Oklahoma cowboy, in a 10-round bout at Coney Island stadium last night.

While Shade was clamoring for a shot at Walker's crown, Courtney was protesting the injustice of the judges' decision. When the decision was announced, Courtney threw off his robe and appealed with open hands to the fans who had crowded around the ring-side. They applauded Courtney and jeered Shade.

The fight was a sanguinary affair, Shade's face being smeared with blood from the sixth round on. Courtney split Shade's nose in the sixth round. Shade opened a cut over Courtney's lip in the ninth round.

A sensational comeback by Shade in the last four rounds won the decision for him. Courtney was way ahead on points at the end of the sixth, but he slowed up from the fast pace and never was able to find himself again.

Referee O'Sullivan had to warn both fighters several times for hitting on the break and below the belt. A crowd of 9,000 saw the bout.

OFFERS BARNES TO THE REDS FOR ADOLFO LUQUE

THEN HE OFFERED BARNES TO PIRATES FOR ANY HURLER EXCEPT MEADOWS

TRADES BARNES AND 3 OTHERS TO BOSTON BRAVES FOR JOE GENEWICH

New York, June 16. — (UP) — Where other managers are afraid to trade, John McGraw will rush in with players to give away to get what he wants.

McGraw offered Zeke Barnes to the Reds this week for Adolfo Luque and was turned down. Then he offered Barnes to the Pirates for any pitcher except Lee Meadows, and again was given the cold shoulder.

To get another capable pitcher, McGraw yesterday traded Barnes and three promising young players to the Boston Braves for Joe Genewich, a right-handed pitcher who may be just the party the Giants need to make them the leading threat for the National League pennant.

Bill Clarkson and Ben Cantwell, both pitchers, and Al Sophrer, catcher, were thrown in with Barnes for good measure.

The trade undoubtedly will benefit both clubs The Braves need pitching strength and get three pitchers where they had only one before. Al Sophrer also will be of value to the Braves as a relief catcher for Zach Taylor.

Genewich is the third recent addition to the Giants who recently acquired Bob O'Farrell from the Cardinals and Russell Wrightstone, utility player, from the Phillies.

The boys, Milt Anderson and Eugene Swanson, make a specialty of winning three legged races and by virtue of three straight wins in this class at various meets throughout the county, claim the three legged race championship of Crow Wing county.

"It was a good race for us," said Milt Anderson after the race, "and the easiest dollar I have ever earned. As we raced I remarked to Eugene that each step meant one cent to each of us. We took one hundred steps and copped the event."

The Farmers Community picnic attracted more than 2,000 people to the limits of Lum Park. The Browns' Sensational Shortstop

By QUIN HALL.

LOOKING over the youngsters who have joined the ranks of the big leaguers this year a bouquet of pink carnations, or something like that, must be set aside for presentation to young Ralph Kress, the rangy St. Louis American League shortstop, who has made good with a resounding wallop.

Without any particular blaring of trumpets the kid pushed his way into baseball fame early in the season by taking a commanding position among the American League batsmen and bids fair to make big whoopee in that department throughout the present year and for some time to come.

Discovered by a friend of Dan Howley's, while he was playing on a high school team in Berkeley, California, Kress was farmed out to Tulsa, Okla., last year for a little seasoning. It is whispered by the knowing ones that Ralph was obtained for little more than railroad fare and he is undoubtedly worth considerable jack in the marts of trade if he were to be put on the block today. Which isn't at all likely.

Kress started to climb to fame while he was with the Oilers last year. With Tulsa he hit .329, getting 35 doubles and 16 home runs. He wasn't so fast in the field, making 63 errors in 155 games and finishing with a mark of .923. However, he rated as the best shortstop in the league and was considered a big factor in Tulsa's winning the pennant over Wichita.

The illness of Melillo and the slowing up of Gerber left a big gap in the Browns' infield and Howley dragged Kress in, from Phil Ball's farm in Oklahoma to help plug up the crevice. How he has succeeded is already baseball history. To complete the filling-in process Howley also had Otis Brannon change from the Tulsa spangles over into the Brown's armor and the pair who had been working side by side for the Oilers continued to mop up around the keystone corner under the big tent.

Under this arrangement it is not necessary for either of them to become acquainted with a new side kick and the pair not only play together, but they room together, eat together and go sightseeing together.

Fortunately, too, they are being tutored under a manger of the Dan Howley type. Dan makes ample allowance for the fact that they are new to the big leagues and encourages them with slaps on the back and sound advice. Howley has a rep for developing young ball players, so the combination looks like a winning one all around.

There has been considerable comparing of Kress and Cissell, the new shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, and while Cissell may have the edge in the field, Kress is leading him with a healthy margin in the hit column and will probably continue to do so.

While it is unreasonable to presume that Kress will lead the league throughout the season against experienced batsman like Ruth, Heilmann, Cobb and the other veteran slammers in the junior circuit, it is almost certain that, barring accidents, young Kress, who jumped from Tulsa to fame in such a short time, will be up there among the top notchers when Fall comes.

And that's quite an accomplishment for a youngster with so little experience.

OFFERS BARNES TO THE REDS FOR ADOLFO LUQUE

THEN HE OFFERED BARNES TO PIRATES FOR ANY HURLER EXCEPT MEADOWS

TRADES BARNES AND 3 OTHERS TO BOSTON BRAVES FOR JOE GENEWICH

New York, June 16. — (UP) — Where other managers are afraid to trade, John McGraw will rush in with players to give away to get what he wants.

McGraw offered Zeke Barnes to the Reds this week for Adolfo Luque and was turned down. Then he offered Barnes to the Pirates for any pitcher except Lee Meadows, and again was given the cold shoulder.

To get another capable pitcher, McGraw yesterday traded Barnes and three promising young players to the Boston Braves for Joe Genewich, a right-handed pitcher who may be just the party the Giants need to make them the leading threat for the National League pennant.

Bill Clarkson and Ben Cantwell, both pitchers, and Al Sophrer, catcher, were thrown in with Barnes for good measure.

The trade undoubtedly will benefit both clubs The Braves need pitching strength and get three pitchers where they had only one before. Al Sophrer also will be of value to the Braves as a relief catcher for Zach Taylor.

Genewich is the third recent addition to the Giants who recently acquired Bob O'Farrell from the Cardinals and Russell Wrightstone, utility player, from the Phillies.

12 YEAR OLD BOYS CLAIM THREE LEG RACE CHAMPIONSHIP

MILT ANDERSON AND EUGENE SWANSON RUN 100 STEPS TO WIN THIRD RACE

Two 12-year-old boys who ran all the way from their homes to Lum Park to "take in" the Farmers Community Picnic just in time to enter their favorite competition, the three legged race, were declared winners ovr the group of runners in that classification yesterday.

The boys, Milt Anderson and Eugene Swanson, make a specialty of winning three legged races and by virtue of three straight wins in this class at various meets throughout the county, claim the three legged race championship of Crow Wing county.

"It was a good race for us," said Milt Anderson after the race, "and the easiest dollar I have ever earned. As we raced I remarked to Eugene that each step meant one cent to each of us. We took one hundred steps and copped the event."

The Farmers Community picnic attracted more than 2,000 people to the limits of Lum Park. The afternoon's chief form of entertainment was the sporting events which came immediately after the speeches headed by J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau. In the evening a dance attracted many.

The committee in charge of the sports follows: L. B. Kinder, Bill McCabe, Ed A. Nelson, F. Preston Caughey, Tom Dykeman, George Erickson, Lawrence McCulloch, C. A. Ryan and John Crowell.

The Browns' Sensational Shortstop

By QUIN HALL.

LOOKING over the youngsters who have joined the ranks of the big leaguers this year a bouquet of pink carnations, or something like that, must be set aside for presentation to young Ralph Kress, the rangy St. Louis American League shortstop, who has made good with a resounding wallop.

Without any particular blaring of trumpets the kid pushed his way into baseball fame early in the season by taking a commanding position among the American League batsmen and bids fair to make big whoopee in that department throughout the present year and for some time to come.

Discovered by a friend of Dan Howley's, while he was playing on a high school team in Berkeley, California, Kress was farmed out to Tulsa, Okla., last year for a little seasoning. It is whispered by the knowing ones that Ralph was obtained for little more than railroad fare and he is undoubtedly worth considerable jack in the marts of trade if he were to be put on the block today. Which isn't at all likely.

Kress started to climb to fame while he was with the Oilers last year. With Tulsa he hit .329, getting 35 doubles and 16 home runs. He wasn't so fast in the field, making 63 errors in 155 games and finishing with a mark of .923. However, he rated as the best shortstop in the league and was considered a big factor in Tulsa's winning the pennant over Wichita.

The illness of Melillo and the slowing up of Gerber left a big gap in the Browns' infield and Howley dragged Kress in, from Phil Ball's farm in Oklahoma to help plug up the crevice. How he has succeeded is already baseball history. To complete the filling-in process Howley also had Otis Brannon change from the Tulsa spangles over into the Brown's armor and the pair who had been working side by side for the Oilers continued to mop up around the keystone corner under the big tent.

Under this arrangement it is not necessary for either of them to become acquainted with a new side kick and the pair not only play together, but they room together, eat together and go sightseeing together.

Fortunately, too, they are being tutored under a manger of the Dan Howley type. Dan makes ample allowance for the fact that they are new to the big leagues and encourages them with slaps on the back and sound advice. Howley has a rep for developing young ball players, so the combination looks like a winning one all around.

There has been considerable comparing of Kress and Cissell, the new shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, and while Cissell may have the edge in the field, Kress is leading him with a healthy margin in the hit column and will probably continue to do so.

While it is unreasonable to presume that Kress will lead the league throughout the season against experienced batsman like Ruth, Heilmann, Cobb and the other veteran slammers in the junior circuit, it is almost certain that, barring accidents, young Kress, who jumped from Tulsa to fame in such a short time, will be up there among the top notchers when Fall comes.

And that's quite an accomplishment for a youngster with so little experience.

URGES MORE PUBLIC INTEREST IN GOV'T.

Attorney General G. A. Youngquist Leads in Devotion to Flag at Elks Exercises

Continued Interest in Government Affairs Will Maintain Public Independence

Urging more interest in government affairs by the public at large and the selection of men to government posts who are capable of carrying the burden of the country's problems on their shoulders, Attorney General G. A. Youngquist lead the speakers in devotion to the flag at the Elks Flag Day services Thursday evening.

The attorney general told of the immense wealth of this country which he said aggregated 400 billions of dollars, of the continued prosperity generally throughout the land and the advancement constantly being made by Minnesota. He suggested that while the people of the United States are prospering they should not permit themselves to detract in close scrutinization of the handling of the government affairs as it is in incidents such as lack of interest that rulers such as Mussolini are produced.

Mr. Youngquist summarized the extent of industry in the United States, pointed out the ever increasing output of automobiles in relation to population, as well as increased production in other lines.

RESOLUTIONS OF LIONS RECORDED

Express Appreciation of the Many Courtesies Extended Them by Local Lions and Others

SPLENDID CONVENTION

Thank W. M. Oates for Efficient and Exemplary Management of District Affairs

Breezy Point, June 16.—The fifth district Lions convention adopted these resolutions at the close of their convention:

Whereas this convention has been both pleasant and successful, primarily through the splendid contribution of time and effort on the part of the Brainerd Lions and Ladies, and

Whereas, other organizations and persons hereinafter mentioned have also contributed in full measure to the entertainment and pleasure of those in attendance,

Now therefore, be it resolved that we express and extend to the Fargo Lions and Ladies, the Brainerd Ladies band, the Hibbing high school band, representatives from other service clubs, Boy Scouts, the press and citizens of Brainerd and vicinity, and to all who have contributed thereto, our genuine thanks and appreciation for the courtesies and cooperation extended to and enjoyed by us.

That to our own District Governor (Bill) William M. Oates, we express our thanks and admiration for the efficient and exemplary management of the affairs and discharge of the duties of district governorship and for his lasting contribution, through service to Lionism in this district as well as in general.

That our commendation and appreciation be conveyed to the Deputy District Governors, Executive Committees and others who have so loyally devoted their services in the faithful performance of work assigned to them during the past year.

That we endorse, and pledge our support to the project of opening the land locked interior of this North American continent to ocean going commerce, through the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway; that we endorse the present cooperation of the Canadian and United States governments, to that end; and that we congratulate these two great governments on the progress actually accomplished in the promotion thereof.

That all experience proves that constructive play and recreation, under trained leadership, can build sturdy youth with powers of disease resistance and nerve balance; instill in them the good ideals of good sportsmanship, as a basis for sound citizenship, and thus serve as a powerful preventive of delinquency.

That the Fifth District of Lions International hereby places itself on record as favoring an adequate community recreation system in every city and town, comprehending such features as playgrounds, athletic fields, social centers, swimming pools and the like, all to be conducted under skilful leadership; and we hereby urge that each club in this district study this problem in its own community and take steps which will lead to the establishment of the plan proposed, wherever it is not already in operation.

That it be the recommendation of this convention that the great American playground and place of outdoor recreation known as the Superior National Park in the United States and the Quetico Park Region in Canada be kept inviolate for the people of today and future generations for all time.

In view of the fact that the entire personnel of the executive part of our district changes annually, recommend changing constitution, so that one district director be elected for a period of three years, one polling the most votes, to be so designated, the next two years and the third one year, and thereafter elect but one director each year. The district should be on a strictly business basis, and no business man would consider a complete change in the officers of his firm each year.

A resolution voted down referred to a division of the district because of increasing number of clubs and the extremely large area.

URGES MORE PUBLIC INTEREST IN GOV'T.

Attorney General G. A. Youngquist Leads in Devotion to Flag at Elks Exercises

Continued Interest in Government Affairs Will Maintain Public Independence

Urging more interest in government affairs by the public at large and the selection of men to government posts who are capable of carrying the burden of the country's problems on their shoulders, Attorney General G. A. Youngquist lead the speakers in devotion to the flag at the Elks Flag Day services Thursday evening.

The attorney general told of the immense wealth of this country which he said aggregated 400 billions of dollars, of the continued prosperity generally throughout the land and the advancement constantly being made by Minnesota. He suggested that while the people of the United States are prospering they should not permit themselves to detract in close scrutinization of the handling of the government affairs as it is in incidents such as lack of interest that rulers such as Mussolini are produced.

Mr. Youngquist summarized the extent of industry in the United States, pointed out the ever increasing output of automobiles in relation to population, as well as increased production in other lines.

RESOLUTIONS OF LIONS RECORDED

Express Appreciation of the Many Courtesies Extended Them by Local Lions and Others

SPLENDID CONVENTION

Thank W. M. Oates for Efficient and Exemplary Management of District Affairs

Breezy Point, June 16.—The fifth district Lions convention adopted these resolutions at the close of their convention:

Whereas this convention has been both pleasant and successful, primarily through the splendid contribution of time and effort on the part of the Brainerd Lions and Ladies, and

Whereas, other organizations and persons hereinafter mentioned have also contributed in full measure to the entertainment and pleasure of those in attendance,

Now therefore, be it resolved that we express and extend to the Fargo Lions and Ladies, the Brainerd Ladies band, the Hibbing high school band, representatives from other service clubs, Boy Scouts, the press and citizens of Brainerd and vicinity, and to all who have contributed thereto, our genuine thanks and appreciation for the courtesies and cooperation extended to and enjoyed by us.

That to our own District Governor (Bill) William M. Oates, we express our thanks and admiration for the efficient and exemplary management of the affairs and discharge of the duties of district governorship and for his lasting contribution, through service to Lionism in this district as well as in general.

That our commendation and appreciation be conveyed to the Deputy District Governors, Executive Committees and others who have so loyally devoted their services in the faithful performance of work assigned to them during the past year.

That we endorse, and pledge our support to the project of opening the land locked interior of this North American continent to ocean going commerce, through the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway; that we endorse the prseent cooperation of the Canadian and United States governments, to that end; and that we congratulate these two great governments on the progress actually accomplished in the promotion thereof.

That all experience proves that constructive play and recreation, under trained leadership, can build sturdy youth with powers of disease resistance and nerve balance; instill in them the good ideals of good sportsmanship, as a basis for sound citizenship, and thus serve as a powerful preventive of delinquency.

That the Fifth District of Lions International hereby places itself on record as favoring an adequate community recreation system in every city and town, comprehending such features as playgrounds, athletic fields, social centers, swimming pools and the like, all to be conducted under skilful leadership; and we hereby urge that each club in this district study this problem in its own community and take steps which will lead to the establishment of the plan proposed, wherever it is not already in operation.

That it be the recommendation of this convention that the great American playground and place of outdoor recreation known as the Superior National Park in the United States and the Quetico Park Region in Canada be kept inviolate for the people of today and future generations for all time.

In view of the fact that the entire personnel of the exectuive part of our district changes annually, recommend changing constitution, so that one district director be elected for a period of three years, one polling the most votes, to be so designated, the next two years and the third one year, and thereafter elect but one director each year. The district should be on a strictly business basis, and no business man would consider a complete change in the officers of his firm each year.

A resolution voted down referred to a division of the district because of increasing number of clubs and the extremely large area.

Scarf Idea Developed in an Interesting Way

The scarf idea, so popular now, is smartly developed through a contrasting colored checked material in a natty white flannel ensemble worn by the motion picture actress, Loretta Young, heroine of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh." Not only is the accompanying blouse fashioned of the same checked material, but the ensemble idea is carried out in the use of the checked material on the accompanying accessories.

On Rearing Children from CRIB to COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of "CHILDREN, The Magazine for PARENTS"

Every child should have periodic health examinations by a physician followed by prompt attention to any necessary remedial work.

A child will learn to work for himself and his own ends with a real zest if parents will see that he is supplied with creative materials, opportunities and the proper atmosphere for original, interest-building experiences. There is a wealth of material at hand for every child. Clay, cement, musical instruments, paints and colors of every kind, foods, textiles, building materials, tools, chemicals, the world of animal and plant life—all he needs are the adults who will recognize the necessity for opening up these possibilities to little children if they are to develop the basis for liking to work and live in an adult world.

Children do not live by bread alone. The parents who fail to render good example, good advice, a watchfulness and comradeship that never abate, yet never tyrannize or oppress, have not lived up to the divine precepts of parenthood.

Laughter is the birthright of every child. It should be cultivated in every home. Children are afraid of formality and in proportion as the atmosphere of the home is stiff, severe and exacting, will they be rigid and unresponsive to all efforts at training in the art of happy living. Just one smile limbers them up astonishingly. A real laugh with them makes them as clay in your hands, plastic to your slightest touch.

Your adolescent son will eat twice as much of anything if it looks attractive. His esthetic senses are just awakening and he hates things ordinary or "messy." But a boy at that age, more than ever, needs simple food of high nutritional value, plenty of green vegetables and milk, few sweets.

Home experience can be made to function in co-operation with, and not against school experience. The home that is organized on democratic principles, that allows the children voice and choice, is the home that sends forth resourceful, responsible citizens. The home where children work together at dishwashing or bedmaking is teaching the important lesson of teamwork. The home that sponsors pleasant parties where boys and girls may meet, is breeding the courtesy, tact and unselfishness that make up the difficult art of social intercourse. The home that takes its part in community activities—that makes use of the library, supports the church, contributes toward the work of social agencies is forming an attitude of responsibility toward the whole human family.

If you find it difficult to keep the baby from kicking the covers off at night try fastening the corners of the blankets to an elastic. The other end of the elastic should be sewed to tapes which may be tied around the bed posts. Thus the covers will be held down firmly enough to discourage crawling out while the give of the elastic prevents their becoming uncomfortable.

Scarf Idea Developed in an Interesting Way

The scarf idea, so popular now, is smartly developed through a contrasting colored checked material in a natty white flannel ensemble worn by the motion picture actress, Loretta Young, heroine of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh." Not only is the accompanying blouse fashioned of the same checked material, but the ensemble idea is carried out in the use of the checked material on the accompanying accessories.

On Rearing Children from CRIB to COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of "CHILDREN, The Magazine for PARENTS"

Every child should have periodic health examinations by a physician followed by prompt attention to any necessary remedial work.

A child will learn to work for himself and his own ends with a real zest if parents will see that he is supplied with creative materials, opportunities and the proper atmosphere for original, interest-building experiences. There is a wealth of material at hand for every child. Clay, cement, musical instruments, paints and colors of every kind, foods, textiles, building materials, tools, chemicals, the world of animal and plant life—all he needs are the adults who will recognize the necessity for opening up these possibilities to little children if they are to develop the basis for liking to work and live in an adult world.

Children do not live by bread alone. The parents who fail to render good example, good advice, a watchfulness and comradeship that never abate, yet never tyrannize or oppress, have not lived up to the divine precepts of parenthood.

Laughter is the birthright of every child. It should be cultivated in every home. Children are afraid of formality and in proportion as the atmosphere of the home is stiff, severe and exacting, will they be rigid and unresponsive to all efforts at training in the art of happy living. Just one smile limbers them up astonishingly. A real laugh with them makes them as clay in your hands, plastic to your slightest touch.

Your adolescent son will eat twice as much of anything if it looks attractive. His esthetic senses are just awakening and he hates things ordinary or "messy." But a boy at that age, more than ever, needs simple food of high nutritional value, plenty of green vegetables and milk, few sweets.

Home experience can be made to function in co-operation with, and not against school experience. The home that is organized on democratic principles, that allows the children voice and choice, is the home that sends forth resourceful, responsible citizens. The home where children work together at dishwashing or bedmaking is teaching the important lesson of teamwork. The home that sponsors pleasant parties where boys and girls may meet, is breeding the courtesy, tact and unselfishness that make up the difficult art of social intercourse. The home that takes its part in community activities—that makes use of the library, supports the church, contributes toward the work of social agencies is forming an attitude of responsibility toward the whole human family.

If you find it difficult to keep the baby from kicking the covers off at night try fastening the corners of the blankets to an elastic. The other end of the elastic should be sewed to tapes which may be tied around the bed posts. Thus the covers will be held down firmly enough to discourage crawling out while the give of the elastic prevents their becoming uncomfortable.

Coat for Schoolgirl

Very smart for the younger girl, and as warm as a fur coat, is a straight belted model of skin processed to resemble reptile skin. It is lined with cloth.

THAT BILL COLLECTOR AGAIN

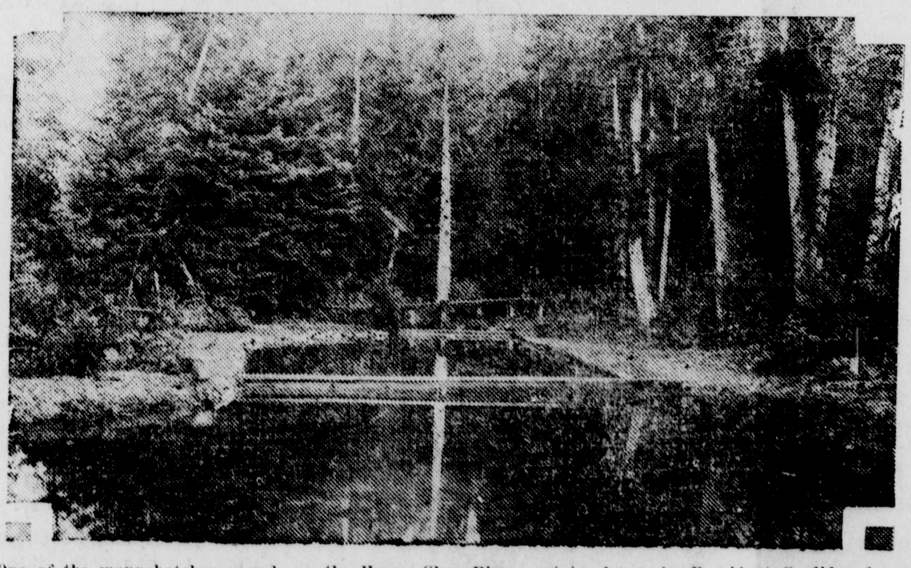

THE SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

Cedar Island Lodge, on Brule River in northwest Wisconsin, where President Coolidge is spending his summer's vacation.

WITH PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ON VACATION

One of the many hatchery ponds on the Henry Clay Pierce estate chosen by President Coolidge for a vacation site. Brule River is noted for its trout fishing and one of the state's finest hatcheries is privately maintained.

Caution

Our memory goes back to the time when we wouldn't have let the eminent scientist's reference to the pituitary gland get into the paper without looking it up in the unabridged dictionary, to make sure where it was, on account of our home circulation.—Ohio State Journal.

Expensive Laugh

It is mighty pleasant to raise a laugh and to tingle to the applause of one's wit, says the modern philosopher, but there is no surer way of rousing the hate of that wit's butt. —American Magazine.

Italian Building Term

Bedvedere is a term designating the whole or a part of the upper story of an Italian building, open on one or more sides so as to command a view. The word means "beautiful view."

Uncertainties Galore

Patient—"Doctor, I can't tell how I feel, I am anyhow, it took me suddenly. I don't know how—I am not very well. I can't tell you why." Doctor—"Take this prescription for I don't know what to the chemist; take it I don't know how many times a day and you will be cured—I don't know when."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Guard Children's Health

Supervision of the health of children from birth to five years of age, as well as during the school period, five to fourteen years, has been brought about in Middlesborough, a manufacturing and seaport town in Yorkshire, England, through co-operation of the education committee and the child-welfare committee.

Animal Tuberculosis

Cats and dogs are not prone to tuberculosis, but may in rare cases contract it from infected cattle or their milk, or from infected humans. Animals, however, probably are more susceptible to the bovine form of the bacillus than the human type.

One of Lincoln's

Speaking of similes, here is one of Abraham Lincoln's. Of a windy speech, he said: "It was as thin as a homeopathic soup made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death."—Boston Transcript.

Faith Must Be Certainty

We cannot live on probabilities. The faith in which we can live bravely and die in peace must be a certainty, so far as it professes to be a faith at all, or it is nothing.—Froude.

Practical

In one of the Indianapolis high schools the physics instructor was endeavoring to put the subject on a practical basis. Turning to one bright-eyed lad in the class, he asked: "If you reduce the size of the motor to make it more compact for an electric sweeper, what would you get out of it?" The boy calmly replied: "Dirt."
